SPECIAL TO MR. JOSEPH GIULIOTTE, BOSTON RECORD

ED HEATH OF DORCHESTER QUEBEC GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMP

Ed Heath, a 6', 200 lb. native of Dorchester, Massachusetts and a freshman at Loyola College in Montreal, has captured the Golden Gloves Heavyweight Title of the Province of Quebec.

Heath played high school football at Thompson Academy where he was an All-New England selection at linebacker. He was also a starting linebacker on the Warrior Football squad this year and was named the Freshman Athlete of the Year at Loyola.

Richard Arless, Coach of Loyola's Boxing Club,is excited about the 19 year-old Heath. "After watching the A.A.U. Golden Gloves Championship I feel that Eddie, with more experience, could gain a berth on the U. S. Olympic squad", stated Arless.

Ed Enos, a native Bostonian who serves as the Director of Physical Education and Athletics at Loyola, commented: "Eddie Heath is one of our most talented all-round athletes. I believe he has the innate ability and competitive drive to make the U. S. Olympic Team that will compete in the '76 Games here in Montreal."

Coming from a man with Enos' credentials the name Ed Heath bears watching. Professor Enos, who has two degrees and is close to a third to go along with an impressive list of academic honors, was himself a highly-regarded heavyweight boxer during the mid-fifties. He was a member of the late John Buckley's stable before turning to pro-football and graduate school.
